TAKES OWN LIFE
VIA GUN ROUTE*Oscar Olson Of Woodruff Ends Earthly Troubles
Monday

Oscar Olson, a Woodruff carpenter, committed suicide by shooting early Monday morning. His body was discovered by two men who heard the shot while passing Olson's house. Olson shot himself with a rifle; the bullet entered between his eyes, removing a portion of his head.

Olson was a bachelor about forty-three years old and lived alone in his work shop. It is stated that he had not been in the best of health of late and at times gave symptoms of being mentally unsound. He is said to have had a sweetheart in Norway and worried a great deal over her failure to come to this country and marry him. He had never hinted suicide, however, and his rash deed came as a surprise to the entire village. A friend, of Olson's, who was asleep on the second floor of the building, failed to hear the shot, although, the bullet penetrated the ceiling and narrowly missed hitting him.

Coroner J. J. Nick went to Woodruff and after investigating the case deemed it unnecessary to hold an inquest. The funeral was held in Woodruff Wednesday afternoon. He ceased leaves three sisters, two reside in Norway and the other in Mosinee, Wis.

Her long tulle veil fell in graceful folds and was fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Beatrice Barnes, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of Alice blue chiffon and lace. Her large picture hat was trimmed with bunches of French flowers, and she carried an arm bouquet of white lilies and pink roses. Frederick McGuire, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. TO YOUR PROSPERITY

(By F. O. Barstow, Sec., Rhinelander Advancement Ass'n.)

Loyalty to the city or community in which one lives is something that naturally exists in the mind of most every citizen. Men are coming more and more to realize that it is both a privilege and a duty, as well as good economics and sound business sense, to consider the community and its development and advancement as seriously as they consider their individual well being.

It has been said, "What a man does for himself, fades with him—What he does for the community lives long after him." Contributing to the prosperity or welfare of the city in which you live is contributing to your own prosperity.

If no one would have taken an interest in the welfare of our city; if no one would have contributed to its prosperity; we would not have paved streets, schools, churches, factories, or anything that goes to make this a better town to live in. All these things are accomplished by the co-operation of the citizens having a supply of local pride which they are willing to contribute to the community.

Every community needs a co-operative body to aid in the promotion of its prosperity; co-operation in an attempt to obtain any civic betterment lends a force which invariably ends in success.

How much time, effort and actual cash are you required to give each year to help build up our city and county? What has been the cause of the increase of population in our city? Are you doing your share of this work, or are you riding on the other fellow's work?

We must let the past be history with a great deal of it to be forgotten and every citizen of Rhinelander and Oneida county put his shoulder to the wheel and put greater prosperity into our city and community than ever before. It is up to you; it is up to all to get behind the organization that has done things in the past, and with your help will do greater things in the future.

The Advancement Association is a great establishment for the development of Rhinelander and Oneida county. No matter what has happened in the past; no matter what your differences may have been; or are now; that is history. Let us face about and at the command of forward march, let every one of us march shoulder to shoulder to do battle for a Greater Rhinelander.

Remember, the success of the individual in our city and county is largely gauged by the success which the Advancement Association is enabled to attain in developing the community. It is up to you.

BIG SUM IS SECURED
HERE FOR ARMY Y. M. C. A.

While only two returns had been made up until a late hour this forenoon, it was estimated at that time that the whirlwind campaign conducted in this city Wednesday for the Army Y. M. C. A. fund, resulted in the contribution of between $1500 and $2000.

It is understood that about $500 was raised among employees of the Rhinelander Paper company. Brown Brothers donated $300, C. P. Crosby gave $100 and there were several contributions of $50 each.

The campaign started Tuesday night with a banquet at the Oneida Hotel. A number of good sized contributions were made at this gathering. Six teams of ten men each were organized to collect subscriptions. These teams began work early Wednesday morning and the majority of the solicitors were through before five o'clock in the afternoon.

Nearly every man in Rhinelander was asked for a contribution and it is learned that refusals were very few. Everyone seemed glad to "do his bit" in this great patriotic movement.

MOVE CAFE SOON

Work on the remodeling of the Commercial Hotel is about finished. Henning's Cafe, which will occupy the greater part of the first floor, will be installed in the building within a few days.

Aside from conducting a high class restaurant Mr. Henning will have an up to date ice cream parlor, an expensive soda fountain to be part of his equipment.

TWO COUPLES WED

Sun Flower Resort, June 5, 1917. Fabian Woodzicka and Miss Belle Pettit left hurriedly at break of dawn Monday on a touring trip for Ironwood, accompanied by C. Foelkner and Miss Hazel Hewitt of Minocqua, where both couples were united in marriage by Rev. Healy of that place.

Their friends at Sun Flower stealthily decorated the touring car with such as old shoes and other ornaments, which were safely undetected in the dimness of dawn of their departure.

DANCE FOR RED CROSS

Attend the dance at the Armory tonight. The proceeds from this dance will be given to the Red Cross society.

ANOTHER CLASS JOINS ALUMNI*Fifty Receive Diplomas At High School Commencement Friday

(Contributed)

Before the commencement program in the auditorium, nearly every one of the large crowd present at the High school Friday visited the exhibit of the work of the manual arts department in the gymnasium.

On a long table in the center of the room was the work of the grade boys consisting mainly of lower rollers, hat racks and bird houses. These latter presented a most attractive appearance as they were painted red, white and blue and arranged in the proper order gave a patriotic touch.

On the north wall was a creditable collection of drawings and cut out and pasted work, and conventionalized borders all of which were well done and of educational value. Occupying the two ends of the room was the work of the older pupils in the high school and evening school. Some large pieces of furniture were especially fine. The girls had a most interesting exhibit of sewing, embroidery, tatting, crocheted laces, and dressmaking. The work done by Anna McIntosh and Dorothy Keep deserves mention, also the cross stitch work of May Gjestrum and Elaine White while Elvira Carlson had on exhibition a dainty gown, a pale blue silk party gown and an exquisite rose smock of which she may well be proud. All sorts of dainty and pretty garments made by the girls showed that the high cost of living held few terrors for them. There was no exhibit of cooking this year, probably due to the absence of Miss Pepper.

The class of 1917 presented a fine appearance, the girls all dressed alike in white middieys and brilliant green Lombard ties, embodying in this costume the school colors.

The program opened with a number by the High school orchestra, an organization which does much credit to the devotion of its leader, Mrs. Jessie Hampton, and this was followed by chorus singing under the direction of Miss Buck. It seemed as if the young people sang with more vigor and freedom than we have heard them on former occasions and they received hearty applause. After the invocation by Rev. Silverstein the Girls' Glee Club sang in a most acceptable manner and Mr. Colburn introduced Attorney Frank Fawcett of Milwaukee, the speaker of the evening, who addressed the audience in an eloquent manner on the subject of "Preparedness for Peace." He spoke first of the civic duties of men—the necessity of keeping one's own back yard above criticism and said that he hoped that one effect of the registration for conscription, which had shown the large number of men in each place who have not voted in the past, would be to make laws to the effect that if a man did not use his right to cast a ballot, the vote should be taken from him.

In addressing the mothers he emphasized the fact that the future of this country depends not so much upon the law makers as on the home makers. He warned parents to be careful what pictures they had in their homes and what songs, and magazines and newspapers. Big time never developed character, he said, and when that freedom of the press became a menace to young and jeopardized morality it should be curtailed. All the heroes do not go to the battle field, he said, and mothers could find their battle ground right here in Rhinelander, where the home must fight the temptations of the streets.

Speaking to the class he said that it has often been said that there is no such word as "fail," but there is such a word, and it is spelled with a capital. But for young men and girls willing to work, and plan and overcome, there shall be no such word.

The address was followed by another number by the orchestra and a beautiful duet by Miss Schlesman and Mr. Arthur Johnson, who have on so many occasions delighted audiences in this place by their charming singing.

Fifty young people then received their diplomas from Mr. Colburn who spoke briefly and to the point of some of the aims of the school and also in eulogy of that member of the class who's sudden death so shocked the community and his class mates.

Wheeler Sutliff has the highest standing for the four years, his average being 92½ plus. Edwin Nyland and Donald Bennett each have an average of 91 and a fraction. Lucille Strangstad has an average of 90 plus.

The Junior Prom, one of the prettiest parties of the season, was held in the high school gymnasium Wednesday night. The hall was daintily decorated to represent a Japanese garden. Class night exercises were held before the dancing.

CIRCUIT COURT
HERE NEXT WEEK*Judge George Thompson To Preside—Jury Will Not Be Called

The resumed session of the March term of circuit court will be held next week, beginning Tuesday, June 19th, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon.

Judge George Thompson of Ellsworth, Pierce county, will preside in place of Circuit Judge Reid, who is occupied in other court work.

As there were but one or two jury cases ready for trial, the court has decided not to summon the jury and therefore all jury trials will go over to the regular September term.

The resumed session will likely be very short as few cases for trial by the court are on the calendar.

The hearing of applications for citizenship, adjourned from the March term will be taken up at this session, with the exception of those who are subjects of Germany. The hearing on the latter, on the ruling of the Department of Justice, must be postponed from time to time until the close of the war with Germany, pending a decision of a case now in the United States Supreme Court; should the court decide differently to the department's ruling, hearing on applications of German subjects will be taken up at the next term of court.

PERKINS MAKES GREAT SHOWING*Local Wrestler Holds His Own In Match With John Albrecht

Rhineland has a husky in the person of Billy Perkins, who in his match with John Albrecht, famous Minneapolis police wrestler, at the Armory last night, demonstrated beyond a doubt that even with a handicap of 20 pounds or more and with an antagonist who had it over him as to reach and length of body, he was able to hold his own.

To make a long story short the match was one of the best seen in this city and pleased a fair sized audience of enthusiastic fans. Perkins won the first fall from his opponent by a toe hold in twenty-eight minutes. The Minneapolis man took the next two falls, the first in twenty-four minutes and the second in sixteen minutes. He used the scissor hold to good purpose. Albrecht's weight and reach gave him a decided advantage over Perkins.

At the close of the match Albrecht made a statement before the crowd that Perkins was the best man for his size that he had ever met.

In the preliminary match between Harry Malone and Harry James, the latter was the victor.

Harry James of Babcock acted as referee.

WILL RELEASE 1,000

Orders releasing more than 1,000 young men from camp at Fort Sheridan, is soon to be issued, on account of not coming up to the physical requirements. Many have physical defects, such as color blindness, flat feet, bad hearing, weak eyes, and a few are to be released because they do not show an aptness toward grasping the essential details of the duties which are required of them.

MAY SAW IN CRANDON

There is a probability that the logs of the Mason, Donaldson Co., of Rhinelander, will be sent here to be sawed at the Keith & Hiles mill. Negotiations have been under way since that Company's mill burned and in case the deal goes through it will mean the running of the local mill day and night till late in the fall.—Crandon Republic.

FIRE AT MILL RUINS

Both hose companies responded to an alarm at four o'clock Saturday morning turned in by the watchman at the Stevens saw mill ruins. A burning saw dust pile which is believed to have been smoldering since the time of the mill fire, was the cause for the alarm.

MANY GO TO TOMAHAWK

The annual summer tournament of the Wisconsin Volunteer Firemen's association is being held this week in Tomahawk. A carnival is one of the attractions. Many Rhinelander people are in attendance.

CITY TEACHERS DEPART

The city schools closed Friday for the three months vacation. The majority of the city teachers have departed for their homes throughout the state to spend the summer.

Laziness

Stodious physicians are beginning to realize that laziness is a natural characteristic of otherwise healthy individuals. Too often they have found it to be a symptom of an obscure disease which is not easy to recognize. Consider the plight of the "poor white trash" and the "lazy good for nothing negroes" of the south for example.

Industrious and well-to-do people of the north and of the south, too, for that matter, have looked upon these people with what they have thought to be well merited contempt. But a few well trained physicians, well equipped with microscopes, have turned that contempt into sympathy and pity. By their exact methods of investigation they have established the fact that millions of people are the victims of a serious disease due to infection by hookworm.

The hookworm attacks people in the feet. Poor people in the south, therefore, who, because of poverty go barefoot, are especially liable to infection. Victims discharge the worms from their bowels. The wretchedly insanitary privies which characterize poverty stricken neighborhoods make it possible for generation after generation of these worms to circulate from old victims to new ones. We have then, another instance of an endless and deadly chain of cause and effect.

The chief symptoms of the disease are weakness, anemia and a tired, listless feeling. Inasmuch as it is estimated that at least a third of the southern population is infected, it is easy to see how this disease, alone, could have given the south the reputation of being the home of a lazy and shiftless people. Fortunately, a cure has been found which is quite certain, speedy and cheap. Unfortunately the people have become so poverty stricken as a result of the Civil War and this disease that many haven't the means of paying even the small cost of their successful treatment.

More than any of us know, perhaps, tuberculosis, both in the north and in the south, is responsible for apparent laziness. In a great number of instances I have observed and wondered at what seemed like laziness of friends and acquaintances who later were found to be suffering from tuberculosis. Nowadays I question if lazy people aren't almost invariably the victims of some disease which, unknown to themselves, their families, and friends, is slowly draining their energy and life away.

The moral is, that people who are unaccountably tired and listless should be searched by a competent physician for a possible obscure, blood sucking disease.

MARRIAGE NOT ENOUGH

To be married is not alone sufficient excuse to escape military service. It is the intention of the government to take those who have no other persons solely dependent on them for support. A husband who has financial means so that his family will be provided for during his absence, or whose wife has independent means, or whose wife is capable of earning her own living without hardship is not excusable under the law.

Each case will stand or fall on its own merits. If a drafted person can convince the county exemption board that he has dependents who without him would go cold or hungry, he will be excused. Otherwise he will have to serve even though he may be married.

SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

On complaint of his wife Charles Gilbert was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail in municipal court, last Thursday, and the sentence was suspended. Mrs. Gilbert claimed her husband assaulted her.

Notice Of Hearing, Settlement and Assignment

ance;

ance;

And the good that we can do."

WANTED—Boy to learn print-

The city of Rhinelander has already subscribed for $225,000 of Li-berly Loan bonds. Of course it isn't a difficult task when one concern takes $100,000 worth, which was done by the Rhinelander Paper Co.
The Brown Bros. Lumber company took another $50,000 worth. Antigo isn't going to grab them off in such large chunks. The plan here is to place at least one bond in every home.—Antigo Journal.

RICH MUST HELP

The rich must do a big bit in this war. This is the mandate of House Leader Kitchin, who angered at the senate tendency to free the wealthy from tax burdens, is preparing to stage a parliamentary riot in the house.

Kitchin has two sore spots about the senate tactics—first that the poor are getting the short end of the upper house finance committee's deal and second, that the upper house apparently is trying to abrogate some of the lower house prerogatives as to originating finance legislation.

If senate provisions, relieving the rich, still stand, or if the senate substitutes a measure of its own.
For the house bill, Kitchin will oppose even entering a conference with senators.

If this fails, Kitchin will kick over the traces in conference and take his fight back to the house floor, where his followers will doubtless give short shrift to the poor man's taxes.

Some liberal senators, too, share Kitchin's idea that the rich man should stand the brunt of the money burden, especially as the poor man will do the bulk of the fighting.—Exchange.

ed out to Fred Diemer in munici-

Gwilt, conservation warden.

FORNY ATTEND ROAD BANQUET

About forty good roads boosters attended the banquet given in honor of F. N. Sargent, division state highway engineer, and members of his force, at the Oneida Hotel Monday night. The Rhinelander Advancement association arranged for the gathering.

Following the banquet Mr. Sargent talked at length on the state trunk and highway line bill, bringing out the principal points of the law. Mr. Sargent stated that the government appropriation to Wisconsin for five years reaches $1-925,415. Equal sums totaling this amount are given by the state and county. Oneida county will get over $15,000 a year for road maintenance and about $1,500 as its portion of the automobile tax, according to estimate. Provisions for the building of five thousand miles of roads in Wisconsin and raise in the automobile license from five to ten dollars are contained in the trunk and highway line bill.

Interesting talks were also given by F. E. Parker, Oneida county highway commissioner, and J. M.
Baker, chairman of the Oneida county highway committee.

DELIVERY COSTS ARE VERY HIGH

Delivery of living necessities with in a city costs more than railway freight transportation, according to a U. S. Census Bureau report, based on an investigation of conditions in Washington, where there is a minimum of industrial and wholesale hauling.

Of the 128 establishments reporting 62 per cent of the gross sales was spent for delivering. Grocery delivery costs were 4.4 per cent; milk, 12.1 per cent; bakery products, 19.8; ice cream, 11.9; ice, 15.6; coal and wood, 15.2; and laun-dries, 20.3.

The estimated total costs of freight $40 for each individual last year, and intricately delivery amounted to and slightly more than half was for cartage.

The report expressed the belief that the figures apply approximately to delivery expenses on articles for retail consumption in other cities.—The Seaford Journal.

Chief George Stark, William
Prince, Frank Shetluff and Paul De Jung, of the Rice Lake fire department, were in Rhinelander Wednesday the guests of B. E. Lee. They had been attending the firemen's tournament in Tomahawk.

When one can buy Arrow collars for ten cents each, in these days of high prices there is no need to holler about not being able to save money. P. L. Whittier, "the barefoot boy," is selling Arrow collars for a dime and will continue to do as long as his supply lasts.

A demonstration of Dr. Hawkins' new substitute for suspenders and belts was given by N. R. Miller at Markham-Stone's clothing store Tuesday. This is a wonderful device and all men readily recognize its practicability. Markham & Stone are the sole agents for this city.

FIND IT HARD TO BE MANLY

One of the Most Trying Jobs for Girls Is to Learn to Walk Like the Sterner Sex.

"One of the hardest jobs in my life," said a stage manager who is drilling a chorus to wear men's clothes, "is teaching girls to act like men. The first thing a girl does, when she gets into men's attire, is to put her hands in her trousers pockets. She thinks it looks 'manly.' And so it would if she did it naturally.

"First of all, she thrusts her hands down as far as they will go, and then proceeds to spread-out the pockets of her trousers until it looks as though she had a four-pound loaf in each.
She thinks that is just what a man would do, though I'll bet she's never seen him do it. Well, when I have drummed into their heads that men don't go about showing the size of their pockets, but let it be known occasionaly that they possess hands, I have got to teach them how to walk.

"For some reason or other girls are mighty pleased with themselves when they get a pair of trousers on, and they are never tired of admiring their feet, which look smaller, somehow, than when peeping beneath a skirt.
Having informed them that a man doesn't spend all his time looking at his toes, I beg and implore them to walk across the stage 'just like the men do.'

"Is there anything else easier?
You'd soon find out if you watched those girls. A dozen or so will start as though they were entering for a foot race, crossing the stage in about ten strides. Others will do the same distance in 20, 30 or even 40. One will take short, jerky steps, averaging three to the yard; another, long strides; a third, something between a hop and a skip.

"Not one of them can walk like her brother or her father, or like any man that was ever born. I get them to follow me about the stage and endeavor to imitate my walk, but it's a tough job. They can't get out of walking with a wiggle, and it's my belief they think it adds to the attractiveness of pedestrian exercise."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THERE'S A REASON

"Papa, why do they call it a sad iron."
"Being hauled over the coals so often is enough to make anyone sad."

How to Make Toast.

An expert eater of 30 years in his little book for invalids puts this matter of making toast in a very satisfactory way. He says: "Many seem to think they have made toast when they brown the outside of a slice of bread? Have they? The object of making toast is to evaporate all the moisture from the bread, and holding a slice over the fire to singe does not accomplish this; it only warms the moisture, making the inside of the bread doughy and decidedly indigestible. The true way of preparing it is to cut the bread into slices a quarter of an inch thick trim off all crust, put the slices in a pan or plate, place them in the oven, which must not be too hot, take them out when a delicate brown, and butter at once."

purpose and effort more than in their possibility for them to live in reality.—Bus-

DR. IRA LANDRITH

DR. IRA LANDRITH was for years one of the leading journalists of the south. For ten years he was the editor in chief of the Cumberland Presbyterian, a journal that occupies a national position in the religious field. He later became general secretary of the Religious Educational Association. He has been moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, chairman of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A., secretary of the Men and Religion Movement and president of Ward-Belmont College, the strongest woman's college in the south. He is a giant intellectually, a man of wonderful personal magnetism, of splendid oratorical ability and is loved by every one who knows him. His talks are gems. At night the address will be in the nature of an inspirational talk addressed particularly to the young men of the community. He will be here the last day.

JUDGE REID REGRETS CHANGE

In the Marquette Law Review for June, 1917, Judge A. H. Reid of this judicial circuit has an interesting article entitled, "A Frequent Recurrence to Fundamental Principles." The writer deprecates the fact that Wisconsin's law code adopted by the legislature in 1856, should have been tampered with in recent years to an extent where justice gives way to legal technicalities.

The instance on which Judge Reid lays stress is the provision included in the general charter for cities in Wisconsin and in several special charters granted cities, which demands that any disallowance of a claim by a city council, county board, school board, library board or other similar quasi-municipal body, must be followed within twenty days by the filing of an appeal by the persons making the claim if the claim is not to be forfeited. Judge Reid states in his article that many valid claims have been rendered uncollectable, even though recourse has been made to the Supreme court of the state, owing to this recourse to technicalities. Judge Reid has drafted a bill which has been introduced in the state senate by Senator R. P. Wilcox, of Eau Claire, which will amend all city charters on this point. The bill is Senate Bill 445.

RECORD OF THE PAST

No Stronger Evidence Can Be Had in Rhinelander

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in years gone by is the best guarantee of future results. Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from kidney ills, should find comforting words in the following statement: Mrs. A. Gruebel, 828 Arbutus St., Rhinelander, says: "I always had kidney trouble, in fact, I can't remember when I wasn't doctoring for it. I suffered from a dull, heavy ache in the small of my back and it bothered me mostly at night when I lay down. My back was fearfully lame and my kidneys were weak, giving me great annoyance. As soon as I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, I could soon see a difference and kept on taking them. Four boxes fixed me up all right and I had no more trouble for a long time. Then from overwork and taking cold I had an attack of backache, but I again used Doan's Kidney Pills and one box was enough to fix me up all right!" OVER SIX YEARS LATER Mrs. Gruebel said: "I can say that I value Doan's Kidney Pills as highly as ever."

Price—50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gruebel has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

SCANDINAVIAN NEWS

SUMMARY OF IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS IN FAR OFF NORTHLAND.

ITEMS FROM THE OLD HOME

Resume of the Most Important Events in Sweden, Norway and Denmark—Of Interest to the Scandinavians in America.

The North sea is infested with German submarines, making it very difficult for both Sweden and Norway to receive enough supplies of food and raw materials from America, in the event of war with Germany. The Scandinavian nations also realize that they would be an easy prey for the Zeppelins, because most of the Scandinavian cities have not sufficient protection from the air. But the Scandinavian nations are eager to see German militarism crushed. The United States' entrance into the war on the side of the allies has been greeted by the Scandinavian nations as a ray of hope in all the darkness in which they have been living for months. Scandinavia's socialists announced their suggestions for peace at the Stockholm conference. They are: "The establishment of Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro, and Roumania as separate entities. Future of Alsace-Lorraine to be left for settlement on the basis of the national right of free action. Belligerent parliamentary assemblies to be requested to work for speedy peace, general disarmament and establishment of a court of arbitration."

SWEDEN.

Sweden has lately been assailed in some of the leading German newspapers and magazines because of her position toward the war. A keen disappointment has prevailed for months in pan-Germanic circles in regard to Sweden's decision to remain strictly neutral. There is no doubt that many Germans during the first two years of the war expected that Sweden would be willing to join the Teutonic powers. They were utterly surprised to see that the whole Swedish nation with the exception of a few activists who cared more about the future of Germany than about the future of their own country, was absolutely opposed to any policy which would align them with the Germans. Germany has been alarmed over the rapid growth of the sympathies in Sweden for the allies. But she has not been able to see the real reason for this change. She cannot or does not want yet to realize that the decrease in the sympathy for Germany in the few countries still remaining neutral is due entirely to her own policy; to her disregard of neutral rights; to her unscrupulous practice of the principle of military necessity above all.

A new type of airplane has been planned and constructed by an officer in the Swedish army, Lieutenant von Forat. It differs from ordinary types in that it is made entirely of steel and woven fabrics, with the exception of the propeller, which is of wood, and in the arrangement of the wings. The lower plane of the machine lies for three-quarters of its width back of the upper plane, instead of being directly under it, as in most machines. The especial advantage claimed for the new airplane lies in its climbing ability, which is declared to be 3,000 feet in 4 to 5 minutes. Its speed is 100 miles an hour. The motor is of 100 horse power.

"It is an ill wind that blows no one good." Tramps, walking singly or by twos and threes, have been quite common in all parts of Sweden at all seasons of the year. The introduction of bread cards suddenly put an end to this traffic. The reason for the change must have been that the bread cards limited the bread supply so nicely that there was nothing left for the weary Willies.

Tage Olsson, a Stockholm educator, has invented automobile tires without rubber. For eight years he has been making experiments, and now he has succeeded to the extent that a stock company has been organized for manufacturing and placing the new tire on the market. All of the raw materials are found in Sweden. It takes only one minute to put on the new tire on the wheel.

The riksdag has already voted $2,700,000 for the defense of neutrality this year, and now the government asks for another appropriation of $14,000,000 for the same purpose.

Iron money has been in circulation in Sweden since April 11. The denominations are one and two ore, an ore being worth a trifle over one-fourth of a cent.

England received 89.9 per cent of all butter exported from Sweden in 1914, amounting to 82,393 tubs. It dropped to 37,378 tubs in 1915, and, according to official statistics for 1916, just issued, went down to 533 tubs last year. Exports to Germany and Austria increased from less than 10,000 tubs in 1914 to 47,152 in 1915, and 57,200 in 1916. The domestic consumption increased greatly in 1916, due probably to the falling off in the fabrication of margarine. Prices were roundly 50 per cent more than in peace times.

NORWAY.

It is reported that Capt. Roald Amundsen, the discoverer of the South pole, is going to give the name Bessy to the new ship which is being built for carrying him to the regions of the North pole. The explanation sounds like a fable. Betty is the name of his old nurse—for even the indomitable discoverer of the South pole was really under the sway of a nurse during a certain period of his life. Half a century ago she came on board the stately tea clipper, Constantin, which vessel was commanded by Amundsen's father. This event took place in Gothenburg, Sweden. Amundsen's parents were at that time enjoying their honeymoon, and Betty Andersen girdled the globe in company with them, going by way of China and Ceylon. She witnessed a mutiny on board the ship, a Chinaman proposed to her, and she was exposed to sundry other dangers during the trip. Finally she was considered hardy enough to keep a watch on four boisterous little Amundsens, who made the whole neighborhood unsafe when the snow was more or less damp. Roald became Betty's particular favorite. If there is anything that she is proud of telling it is, that she once saved him from drowning. It must be admitted that the water was only one foot deep—he had tumbled into a fountain in the garden. But he was only between one and two years old, so that his life must have been in danger. She pulled him out of the water and rolled him on the lawn until he came to again. Betty has stayed with Amundsen ever since his mother died. Now she is living in a little cottage which he has put up for her on his property at Bundejord. When the news came that Amundsen had reached the South pole someone said to her that now she too would become famous, to which she answered that she would not like to become famous by any manner of means. But she cannot help it, poor thing!

Herring is such an important article of food in Norway that the Norwegians might be expected to study that fish more closely than any other nation. During the year 1915-1916 about 11,000 herring were subjected to careful scientific investigations. Everyone was weighed and measured, the sexual development and the percentage of fat were determined, etc., and finally the age was found by counting the annulars on the scales. Of the so-called "big herring" about one-half were 12 years old. They had been hatched in 1904. The crop of that year was an extraordinary one. For years past herring hatched in that year had furnished a very large percentage of the herring caught in Norwegian waters. Herring hatched in 1910 have also been favorites, representing about 15 per cent of the materials that have been investigated. The youngest "big herring" were only three years old, while the oldest had the respectable age of eighteen years. Samples of these extremes were very few among the 11,000 treated. The "big herring" are so regular that the student can establish general facts with regard to them. Not so the "spring herring," which is so irregular that it is almost impossible to establish general rules with regard to its habits, occurrence, etc.

More than one hundred Norwegian steamers have been torpedoed by German submarines since the beginning of the new campaign of ruthlessness, with a loss of many Norwegian lives, and only a few days ago a Norwegian ship was seized by a German submarine within Norwegian territorial waters and taken to a German port, in spite of the protest of the commander of a Norwegian warship which could not fire on the Germans because of lack of ball shells.

In Norway the anti-German sentiment has increased tremendously during the last week and the Norwegian press is already discussing the possibility of breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany.

FINLAND.

Strikes in all branches of industry throughout Finland are reported in a dispatch from Helsinki. In some districts the strikes have been accompanied by acts of violence against the employers.

DENMARK.

Miss Wilhelmine Wessel-Draun of Copenhagen, who died a short while ago, was a descendant of Peter Wessel Tordenskjold, being the great-granddaughter of one of his sisters. Tordenskjold was a Norwegian, and ranks as the ablest naval hero which Scandinavia has produced.

Some radical changes in the monetary systems of the Scandinavian countries are expected to develop shortly. Financial experts believe that either the dollar or the franc may be adopted as the unit of money for all three countries.

Carl Moller of Copenhagen has invented a new kind of envelope, the main feature of which is, that no paste of any kind is needed for closing it. This is of great advantage in Europe, where all kinds of paste are fearfully expensive on account of the war. The new envelope can be closed easily, and the only way to open it is to cut or tear it. The invention has been patented.

The Danes have lost one hundred ships during the war, seventy of them being steamers.

TREAT TURKEY FOR CHOLERA

Isolate Affected Birds in House Remote From Other Poultry Buildings—Give Creolin.

The word is used to cover a number of intestinal disorders, but cholera is a contagious germ disease and is practically incurable. Place all birds which show any symptoms of the disease in a house remote from other poultry buildings and one which can be easily and thoroughly disinfected. Give the birds a few drops of creolin or sulpho-naphthol in their drinking water, just enough to turn it faintly milky. Give the birds a one-thousandth of a grain tablet of corrosive sublimate every three hours. Feed sparingly on soft easily digested food. All badly affected birds should be killed by a blow on the head without drawing blood and then burned. Take up and burn all litter used in the house and runs occupied by infected birds. Spray the runs and all parts of the building with a creolin or sulpho-naphthol solution, one tablespoonful to two gallons of water. The runs should also be plowed frequently.

PICK FEATHERS FROM GEESE

Best Time is When Operation Does Not Draw Blood—Dry Feathers Before Marketing.

The best time to pick geese is when picking the feathers will not draw the blood; this is usually just before molting time. Some make a practice of picking the geese twice a year, but this is not a good practice, as it depletes the vitality of the geese, and unfits them for good service as breeders.

Just Geese.

After the feathers have been picked, they should be spread out to dry, after which they are ready for the market.

FEEDING MILK TO CHICKENS

According to Nebraska Experiment Station Practice Will Double Production of Eggs.

The use of milk in feeding chickens will double egg production, according to the poultry section of the Nebraska experiment station at Lincoln. "The hen never lays an egg until all the ingredients necessary for the complete development of a chick are present," the station announced.

"Since the egg contains protein as well as carbohydrates, any amount of carbohydrates fed in the form of grain will not offset the necessity of protein. Milk given to the birds, either as a drink, or in the form of wet mash, will double egg yields. Commercial meat scrap is of equal value, and may be substituted when milk cannot be obtained."

OYSTER SHELL IS VALUABLE

It Is Not Fed to Poultry for Purpose of Supplying Grit, but as Material for Egg Shell.

Oyster shell is fed to chickens for the production of egg shells and not for grit as some persons think, according to R. M. Sherman, acting head of the department of poultry husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Approximately 90 per cent of the oyster shell fed laying hens is converted into egg shell, which has a chemical composition almost identical with that of the original shell. Grit shells and lime, although of practically the same composition, are not as appetizing to the chickens and so are not as valuable as the oyster shells.

RIGHT MALES FOR BREEDING

Save Those of Large, Vigorous Type, Showing Well-Developed Breast and Strong Bone.

Cull out the bum roosters. Males of large, vigorous type, showing well-developed breast, strong bone, large comb and wattles and bright eyes should be held for breeding purposes. Crow heads, long beaks and weak legs indicate a lack of constitutional vigor and are usually found in poor producers.

Hold the late-molting hen. Sell the early-molting hen, the persistent or all-summer sitters, and the overfat hen. Sell the immature pullets, or runts, and save only the best. Never breed from diseased stock.

THE MINE

By LOUISE OLIVER.

SEPTEMBER 2.

Left the office early to day to pack. Am now on the Chicago Limited speeding west at the rate of sixty miles an hour on a wild goose chase—or rather, a wild Indian chase. But I'll explain later. Am going to turn in now.

SEPTEMBER 3.

Have read all the magazines, so I may as well jot down a few facts to clear up the case in my own mind. Beside, my sister, and Max Thorn got married and went west to live on a ranch. After they'd made good as far as the farm went and settled themselves to live in peace some fool discovered gold on the edge of their land. That started the trouble. It seems they bought it from an Indian—one George Blackrock—who had graduated from Carlisle and became the protégé of Midas Mills, millionaire stock broker. Mills helped Blackrock to make money and the Indian managed to buy back some of the land that once belonged to his own people. He divided the estate and sold Max half. Then he married a white girl, built a house and should have been happy. But they say he has a daughter seventeen or eighteen years old he's crazy about, and since the gold has been discovered he's making all kinds of trouble. Claims a wrong survey and all that. So here's where I come in. It's my pleasant duty to stand up and tell this Indian that he'd better get off and keep moving.

SEPTEMBER 12.

Things are getting interesting at the mine. Max has a new foreman, Justice Belvideros, a Mexican. They struck a rich new vein and they are importing another gang to work it. This morning one of the canvas bags Max keeps his dust in was stolen. While reconnoitering on the ridge today I caught a glimpse of the Indian girl hurrying away through the scrub oaks. I wonder if Indian George knows anything of the missing bag.

SEPTEMBER 15.

Another bag gone! Belvideros blames the Indian, and strangely enough I saw the girl again. I'm going to investigate tomorrow. Note—The girl is pretty. I got a closer view of her this time. I'd like to see her again.

SEPTEMBER 16.

Snooped around all day and didn't see a thing until on my way home. Across a wild ravine I spied smoke among the trees. Field glasses showed a small tent or wigwam. Almost dark, so I came home. I'm going tomorrow.

SEPTEMBER 25.

It's a week since I've written anything in my diary, but events happened so quick and fast that day and wound up by my getting hurt that I haven't been able to hold a pen. I'm better now, and— But I'll go back. Found tent. No one answered my polite knock, so I lifted the latch and walked in. There were two cots nicely made and covered with Indian blankets, a board floor with a blanket for a rug, a table, two willow chairs and things everywhere that no man would think of.

This was a sort of rest room for daughter. Then the gold bags occurred to me. If daughter had taken them, perhaps they were secreted here. I would search! The floor seemed to be the most likely place, so in a second I was down on my knees rolling back the rug and feeling for a loose board. Suddenly there was a crack of a gun and I felt a sharp pain in my left side.

When I regained my senses it was sunset and I was lying on one of the cots in the little Indian tent all bandaged up and feeling hot and thirsty. Then the pretty Indian girl came in. She gave me a cup of water and held my head while I drank. "How do you feel now?" she asked in the richest, sweetest voice you ever heard.

"Just great!" I found voice to say, and I felt like adding, "I wouldn't mind staying this way forever."

"Who shot me?" I asked.

She sobered. "I'm not sure, for I didn't see," she answered. "You'd better ask Erma."

"Who is Erma?"

"Erma Blackrock. My friend!"

"So there are two of you? I thought you were George Blackrock's daughter."

She laughed. "No, I'm Margaret Mills. Erma and I were schoolmates."

Mills! I was puzzled. Then I remembered Midas Mills. But I was more puzzled than ever. This girl was certainly an Indian with her complexion, eyes and hair.

Seeing my perplexity, she laughed again and, setting a handkerchief, dabbed some white creamy stuff on it and began rubbing at her face. It came away brown, leaving the skin beneath as soft and white as a rose petal. "It's hickory stain," she explained.

A branch cracked outside and in an instant the real Indian girl was in the tent.

"It's the Mexican," she said with suppressed excitement. "I saw where he put it."

Well, to make it short, the Mexican was stealing the gold and he was hiding it in the woods near the tent. He thought I suspected him, followed me and shot me. If it hadn't been for Margaret Mills I should have died.

It all ended by Max and the Indian coming to an agreement. The surveyors found the mine to be on the line, so they decided to make it a partnership affair. So did Margaret and I, for we are to be married this winter.

POULTRY FACTS

STAND FOR SPROUTING OATS

One of Simpler Forms of Sprouters May Be Constructed by Poultryman at Little Expense.

On the farm, where the poultry has free range, they do not lack for green food during the summer, late spring and early autumn. In the absence of a supply of roots and vegetables, sprouted oats may be fed with splendid results in winter. The egg production of farm flocks given a feed of sprouted oats daily during the winter will increase materially and the flock will go into the spring hatching season in much better condition than if green food is not included in the ration. The hens never tire of fresh, tender sprouted oats, and of all green foods they seem to relish this the most.

The simplest method of sprouting oats which we have ever used is a rack made about 20 inches square and 6 feet high, says a writer in Farmers' Mail and Breeze. Wooden trays 2 inches deep and 20 inches square are made to fit this rack and slide in and out on cleats nailed to each side of the rack. These cleats are placed about 8 or 10 inches apart. In the bottom of each tray we bore gimlet holes so the water will drain from the oats. We place the rack in some basement or cellar. We soak the oats in water over night, and the next morning these are placed in a tray and spread out until they are about 1 1/4 inches deep. The oats are sprinkled each day and no artificial heat is used. In six or seven days' time the oats are ready for use. Where we use no artificial heat we are not troubled with mold. This is a cheap and easy method of providing green food if you are properly equipped for sprouting oats.

VENTILATION OF HEN HOUSE

Open-Front Method of Construction Muslin Front and Wind Baffles Keep Out Dampness.

Eliminate the dampness by proper ventilation and the house will be dry and free from frost. This is accomplished by the open-front method of construction, the muslin front, and the wind baffles or shutters.

When muslin is used, allow one square foot of muslin placed on the south side to every 15 square feet of floor space in houses of 15 feet in width. If the house is ten feet wide, use one square foot of muslin to 20 feet of floor space, says Twentieth Century Farmer. In houses 20 feet in width allow one square foot of muslin to every 10 square feet of floor space.

The above rule also applies for the installation of the shutter or wind baffle.

The illustrated types of wind baffles have been found satisfactory for poultry houses and may be made from either galvanized iron or wood.

In constructing the above baffles use 1-by-1s and leave one inch space between for circulation.

POULTRY NEED FRESH WATER

Potassium Permanganate Acts as Antiseptic in Preventing Transmission of Many Diseases.

Chickens need a constant supply of fresh water, according to W. A. Lippincott, professor of poultry husbandry in the Kansas Agricultural college.

"Running water is best," says Professor Lippincott, "but if this is not available, keep the water fresh. Add enough potassium permanganate of potash to make it a wine red. This amount will act as an antiseptic in preventing the transmission of disease through the water and will aid also in keeping down intestinal parasites."

Stumbled on Inventions.

Did you know that some of our greatest inventions have been discovered by men who started in other lines? Well, it is true, and it leads one to believe that you don't have to be an inventor to invent. It is said that the majority of great inventions in America are due to men who stumbled on to improvements in their work. Among many instances which might be selected, three will be sufficient to prove the truth of this statement. Thomas A. Edison, who has taken out more than 500 patents, started work at twelve years of age as a newsboy on the Grand Trunk railroad. Then, for more than ten years he was a telegraph operator. It was not until he was thirty-seven years old that he took out his first patent. A printer's apprentice at the age of twelve, it was not until he was forty-five years old that Benjamin Franklin discovered electricity. And the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, was a Scotchman, who came to America in 1870 as a teacher of deaf mutes, and then became professor in the University of Boston.

Old Tunnel an Ice Cave.

A natural wonder of the Black Hills, in the form of an ice cave, is to be developed and made an attraction for tourists. The ice cave is situated at Englewood, S. D., and is one of the few natural wonders of its kind in the world. Some ten or eleven years ago, what now is the ice cave was run as a tunnel by the late Harvey Sheffer, and had been pushed about 90 feet into the hill when work was abandoned, as no satisfactory mineral showing was encountered. The fact that it had the power of producing ice even during the hottest summer weather was not discovered until later. In the hottest months of the year ice forms in the tunnel, sometimes to a depth of three inches, and a remarkable feature is that during cold weather the ice disappears.

Unhappy in Friendship.

Many people expect too much from their friends. They may themselves be so thoroughly genuine and sincere that they expect all their friends to be the same, and when they discover little faults in their friends they feel the disappointment most acutely. Do not pitch your standard too high, then you are less likely to have your idol shattered. Try to remember that friends will never disappoint us if we observe two simple rules: (1) to find out what they are; (2) to expect them to be just that.

Heaviest and Lightest Woods Here.

FARM PREPAREDNESS

A Series of "Before and After" Sketches in Wisconsin Farming, With Explanations Briefly Recorded

LIKE HIS SIRE, HE IS INFERIOR,

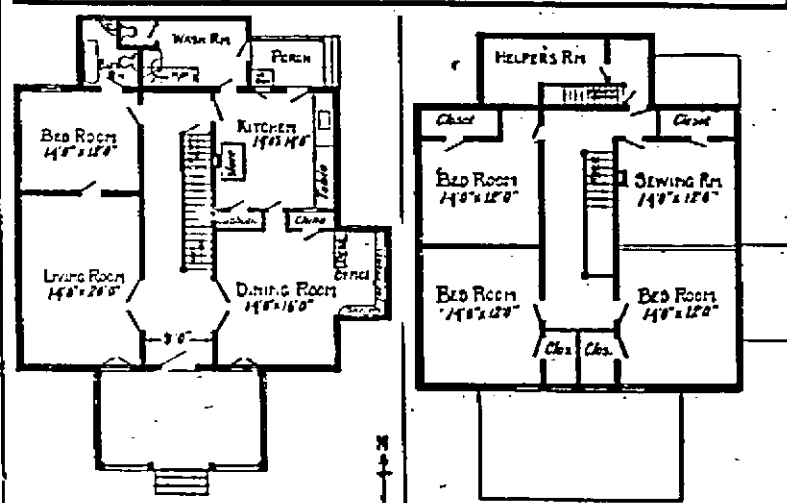

With the slow but sure elimination of the scrub stallion from the breeding yards of Wisconsin comes a brighter day for horseflesh. Keen competition between "champions of the breeds" has taken the place of the shiftless, easy-going system in vogue when "any old kind of a stallion was patronized by farmers.

This change to better ideals had its inception when the first regular state horse breeding law was enacted. Since the enactment of this law in 1907, no less than 356 mongrel stallions have retired from service in the state, while grades and scrubs have fallen in number from 1,005 to 1,239, according to the 1916 official report. Nineteen other states have followed Wisconsin's example and now have stallion-license bureaus under state regulation. In Wisconsin the percentage of purebred sires is now 59 per cent as compared to 35 per cent in 1907.

BUT NOW THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD.

Wisconsin Farm Woman Tells How to Build Home

FIRST FLOOR PLAN SECOND FLOOR PLAN
PLANS FOR FARM HOME THAT HAS DISTINCTIVE FEATURES.

A number of farm women living in various sections of Wisconsin have submitted plans containing their ideas of what should constitute an ideal farm home to H. L. Russell, dean of the Wisconsin college of agriculture. These plans will probably be used as a source of suggestions in designing the model farm house which is to be built on the campus of the University of Wisconsin.

The plan shown in these columns was submitted by a Wisconsin farm woman who has lived for 33 years on a farm. The house is planned for a story and a half, and the designer estimates that it will cost about two thousand dollars to build it plainly and substantially. It is designed for an average farm family, and has ten rooms besides the cupboards and closets.

The distinctive features of the design are the washroom, the office, and the helper's room. The designer believes that it is best to provide for the hired man in the home because this consideration increases his interest in his work. The back stairs enable him to be out in the evening and come in without disturbing the family. She suggests that the washroom, besides serving as a place for the men to wash up and hang their outer garments, be used as a laundry, and as a place for keeping the incubator. The floor is to be made of cement with a coating of rubber paint.

Farmers and their wives are coming more and more to realize the value of an office in the farm home. It provides a place where the farmer can keep his papers and know that they will not be misplaced during the weekly cleaning. He can receive his business callers in it and know that he is not upsetting the family routine, and be sure that the family will not interrupt him.

MAKE POULTRY HOUSE SIMPLE AND CONVENIENT

The fixtures of a farm poultry house, the roosts, dropping boards, and nests, should be simple, convenient, and readily removed to make cleaning easy.

Some very helpful suggestions on farm poultry-house building are contained in a little circular issued by the College of Agriculture, Madison, a copy of which may be obtained by residents of the state who apply for it.

The publication contains working drawings for a poultry house 16 by 32 feet and estimates of the material necessary for its construction. This house will accommodate 125 hens and pullets. The cost of the timber, the circular states, will vary with local conditions, but a gross estimate amounts to about $90. An abundance of light and air are features of this poultry house.

MAKE PLANS FOR RED CROSS DRIVE

Whirlwind Campaign In State From June 18 to June 25

More or less detailed plans for North Wisconsin's part of the big drive for Red Cross funds to be begun all over the state and nation June 18, have been laid by North Wisconsin Red Cross officials and University Extension officers. The whirlwind campaign, lasting from June 18 to June 25, will be carried on in a highly organized way and North Wisconsin's share of the $100,000,000 fund to be raised in the United States will be one dollar for every man, woman and child—which means $10 and $5 for those who are able, because some cannot even give one dollar. Speakers for the Red Cross work will probably be sent out over the state during the week and publicity material will be furnished to all the newspapers in this part of the state, posters, car cards, etc., being used.

Efforts will be made to have the campaigners get together at least once a day for conference, at dinner if it is desired. Leading business men in each community will be enlisted at the head of the campaign.

Branch chapters may be organized in some of the smaller communities in the district. The state has been divided into seven districts for the campaign, with centers at Milwaukee, La Crosse, Wausau, Superior, Eau Claire, Oshkosh and Madison. Meetings of the campaigners were held in all these cities Thursday and handbooks of instruction given out.

Churches throughout the state will be urged to cooperate and to make Sunday, June 17, Bunker Hill day, a date for state-wide patriotic service finding expression in support of Red Cross work.

District heads of the university extension division will act as district directors of the campaign. Each local chapter will appoint on an executive committee the most efficient men in the community and these will appoint their subcommittees.

This campaign is a campaign for funds only, and is distinct from any campaign for members.

DRAFT BENEFITS SALOON KEEPERS

The draft registration is likely to prove of much value to saloon keepers, during the next year or two at least, as a means of protecting conscientious dealers against minors who seek to evade the law and obtain liquor. As a result of the registration a practically complete list of the men of the county between 21 and 31 years of age is now available. The newspapers will have lists and others may obtain similar lists if desired.

When a young man presents himself at a saloon with a request for liquor the saloon keeper, if he is at all suspicious, may simply demand the applicant's draft registration certificate. Everyone registered is supposed to carry this certificate with him so there is no excuse for failure to produce it. Liquor dealers, therefore, who really desire to obey the law have this means of protection available.

MAY MOBILIZE ON JULY 15TH

Mobilization of the Wisconsin National guardsmen, scheduled for June 15, has been indefinitely postponed. Lack of equipment is the reason given by General Holway for the postponement.

The decision of the postponement of the mobilization of guardsmen at Camp Douglas from date set, was reached by Holway on receipt of a telegram from the war department at Washington, declaring that it was unable to furnish the required equipment, but would do so as soon as the manufacturers can turn it out. Holway lacked rifles and tents. He believes it possible that the government may be able to furnish supplies in time to mobilize July 15.

STEEL TRAIN PUT IN SERVICE

The Chicago & Northwestern Ry. has put on all steel coaches on some of the trains now running on this division, states the Clintonville Tribune.

Among the trains equipped with this solid steel vestibuled train service Nos. 114, 116, 117, and 153. Along about this time of the year the traffic over the Northwestern lines leading through here to the great fish country to the north of this city is very heavy and to comply with the greatest measure of safety the company has put on these new cars. For many years an old thing was good enough, but things have been changing until now safety, service and courtesy are the watchwords of the Northwestern as well as all other roads running through this section of God's domain.

NEWSY NOTES OF NEARBY TOWNS

Grand Rapids—

At a meeting of the city council Wednesday, an ordinance was passed which retired J. D. Gibson chief of police, and placing him on the pension roll at half pay. Mr. Gibson is past seventy years old and has served on the police force for more than 21 years and has proven a very efficient officer and is entitled to the benefits that have been extended to him by the city.

Ladysmith—

A yearling doe, mired in what remains of Corbett lake, and almost dead from exhaustion, was rescued by a number of men, including Post master Manning and C. D. Swain, Friday afternoon and placed in Mr. Swain's park until it recuperates from the experience sufficiently to be released.—The Schram Manufacturing Co. has this week installed two new machines, thereby adding five more men to their pay roll. These machines are a bolter and a rip-saw, both operated by steam power and used for cutting up bolts into dimension stock for chairs.

Tomahawk—

Tom Mullick of France, who has been serving with the French armies at the front, and who came near being a victim of the deadly gas that is being used in the trenches, has been visiting near this city. He expects to return to his country soon. He was given a furlough to recover from the effects of the poison and decided to visit in this country. He stated that he recovered more while he was spending his furlough at the lakes near this city than at any previous period.

Antigo—

For years past Antigo has been wanting an armory, but the citizens felt too poor to build one and keep up the expense in maintaining it. Such a donation from John Honausek was wholly a grand surprise to all this city, who will certainly highly appreciate so generous a gift. The committee of the Antigo Militia League will at once look after details in providing a suitable armory—the building was built a number of years ago solely for an Opera House costing $30,000. Made of brick 66x129 ft., all material in the building was the best that could be had at the time of construction.

Ironwood—

The physicians of Gogebie county will do their "bit", no matter whether they go to the front or not. At a meeting of the physicians of the county held the first of the week, an agreement was entered into whereby the doctors of the county agree to raise a fund, each one contributing to his income, this fund to be used to pay the family of each and every physician from this county going to the front the sum of one hundred dollars per month, during the service of such physician. Gogebie county's quota of physicians for the war is five.

Rev. W. Wilson.

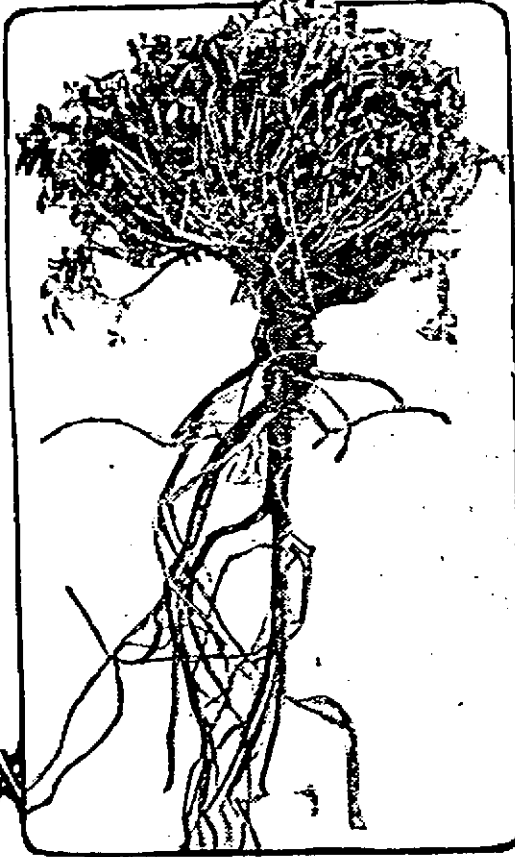

Alfalfa is the shibboleth of the agricultural fraternity.

Admission to the sessions of any regular and business-like body of successful farmers may be had by anyone who has grown or would grow this wonder plant.

It is the most discussed forage crop grown in Wisconsin. Like its roots, which delve for many feet below the top soil, the biography of alfalfa reaches back into the dawn of history. The Medes and Persians were the first known exponents of alfalfa culture, and it was first brought to America by the Spanish explorers, who sowed it in the sunny valleys of California.

Wisconsin farmers have testified their faith in this ancient and honorable plant by establishing a state alfalfa order, dedicated to its development as a strong link in the chain of

Germes of Prosperity (Nature's Nitrogen Monopolists) Alfalfa

FLOWER AND ROOT FORMATION OF ALFALFA

carrying and live-stock raising.

Reasons why the farmers of this state have this abiding confidence in alfalfa or Lucerne, the cousin of the Trifolium family of nitrogen monopolists, have been repeated widely in many different ways. Any detailed review of them would be repeating facts that have been driven home long ago. They are published in experiment station reports and verified from time to time in new and gratifying tests on farms throughout the state.

Just glancing over the ritual of the Alfalfa order, we find them testifying their allegiance in the following manner—not in the same language, but having a similar meaning:

"We believe in alfalfa and think under the right management it should be, and might be, grown on every Wisconsin farm."

"It is a profitable crop—three cuttings a year, with yields of $500 to 5,000 pounds or may an acre bring a reasonable possibility."

"It increases the selling value of a farm, as its growth enriches the soil and the product is worth more on the market than an acre of any other crop."

"It is a sure crop, not being dependent upon rainfall to the extent of other forage crops."

"When once established with a good root system, its frequent cutting quickly kills annual and perennial weeds."

"Its growth leads to live stock farming, as feeding forage to live stock is more profitable than selling it directly."

"Alfalfa is rich in digestible protein, the food element that makes bone and muscle in man and beast."

"Alfalfa produces pork and beef cheaply, and is equal to bran in milk production."

"Alfalfa, once started well, is a sub-solider, and can stand drought better than most plants."

Some of the "high priests" of the Alfalfa cult in Wisconsin have drawn a few conclusions worth noting regarding successful alfalfa culture. Summed up, they are:

"Never expect heavy yields on wet, poor, sour, or weedy land. The use of lime on acid soils is essential for good yields."

"Never neglect preparing the seed-bed systematically."

"Never overlook the value of inoculation. Inoculation never hurts, usually helps, and is frequently essential, especially in the northern counties."

"On soils that are weed free, well prepared, and thoroughly inoculated, 15 pounds of seed to the acre is enough. Never sow less in Wisconsin. On average soils 20 pounds to the acre is preferred."

"Best results under average conditions are obtained by sowing from the middle of June to the first of August, without a nurse crop."

"Cut for the first time when the shoots appear on the root crowns. Leave at least two inches of stubble below the cutter bar. Never cut later than September 5."

Once upon a time there was a farmer who had a number of fine, big, well-built grade brood mares. He bred several of the mares to purebred sires of the best types. Then to save money on his service fees, he bred the remaining mares to some scrub and grade stallions.

When he came to balance his books, he had a new thought about saving money spent for service fees. As yearlings the colts sired by the purebred sires sold for $101, while the other colts sired by the scrub and grade sires sold for $37. The $3 saved on the service fee cost him $64 when he sold his colts.

This is an experience quoted in the bulletin on the Distribution of Public Service Stallions by Dr. A. S. Alexander of the University of Wisconsin.

"It will surprise many to learn that horses are increasing in number in Wisconsin and in the country at large, despite the popularity of the automobile," says Doctor Alexander. "The motor car no doubt has displaced large numbers of light road horses, but the draft horse has not thus far been seriously affected."

It is evident that farmers have not lost faith in horse breeding but are continuing on a normal basis. The tractor has had even less effect than the automobile in displacing horses on the farms of Wisconsin, and, with the exception of an unprecedented loss of new-born foals last spring, the horse-breeding industry is in a flourishing condition.

The effect of the stallion regulation law in Wisconsin has been to retire 356 scrub stallions in five years, and to reduce the number of grade and scrub sires from 1,905 head in 1907 to 1,239 head in 1916.

Hapsburg Rose in Switzerland.

The Hapsburg, or Hapsburgs, of whom Emperor Francis Joseph was the head, derive their name from the castle of Habichtsburg, or Hawk's castle, in the Swiss canton of Aargau. In the twelfth century the family became one of the most powerful in Swabia. Rudolf III was elected emperor of Austria in the following century. While thus extending their possessions and acquiring influence, the Hapsburgs lost their original family possessions, which were gradually absorbed by the cantons. Some 35 years ago the Austrians proposed to purchase the castle of Hapsburg and give it as a wedding gift to the crown prince of Austria, but the people of Aargau refused to hear of the sale.
